OFFICE OF READINGS

{ Third Sunday of Advent }

Stand and make sign of cross

God, come to my assistance.

— Lord, make haste to help me.

Glory to the Father, and to the Son,
and to the Holy Spirit:
as it was in the beginning, is now,
and will be for ever. Amen. Alleluia.

HYMN

O Word proceeding from on high, light coming from the Father's light,
by birth you came to save the world
when time's appointed course had run.

Now come and fill our hearts with light, consume them in your love's bright heat,
and when the herald's cry is heard,
may all deceit be put to flight.

So when at length you come as Judge to probe our hearts in thought and deed, to weigh the guilt for hidden sin
and crown the just for deeds well done,

Let not the nature of our sins detain us in the evil throng, but let us with the blessed share
the life of heaven evermore.

To you, O Christ, most loving King, and to the Father, glory be,
one with the Spirit Paraclete,
from age to age for evermore. Amen.

READINGS

First reading

From the book of the prophet Isaiah

The judgment of the Lord is announced

The Lord God said:

Since this people draws near with words only and honors me with their lips alone, though their hearts are far from me,
And their reverence for me has become routine observance of the precepts of men, Therefore I will again deal with this people in surprising and wondrous fashion:
The wisdom of its wise men shall perish and the understanding of its prudent men be hid.

Woe to those who would hide their plans too deep for the Lord!

Who work in the dark, saying,
“Who sees us, or who knows us?”

Your perversity is as though the potter were taken to be the clay:

As though what is made should say of its maker,
“He made me not!”

Or the vessel should say of the potter,
“He does not understand.”

But a very little while,
and Lebanon shall be changed into an orchard,
and the orchard be regarded as a forest!

On that day the deaf shall hear
the words of a book;
And out of gloom and darkness,
the eyes of the blind shall see.

The lowly will ever find joy in the Lord,
and the poor rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

For the tyrant will be no more and the arrogant will have gone;
All who are alert to do evil will be cut off,
those whose mere word condemns a man,

Who ensnare his defender at the gate,
and leave the just man with an empty claim.

Therefore thus says the Lord,
the God of the house of Jacob,
who redeemed Abraham:

Now Jacob shall have nothing to be ashamed of,
nor shall his face grow pale.

When his children see the work of my hands in his midst,

They shall keep my name holy;
they shall reverence the Holy One of Jacob,
and be in awe of the God of Israel.

Those who err in spirit shall acquire understanding,
and those who find fault shall receive instruction.

Responsory

Isaiah 29:18, 19; see Matthew 11:4,5

On that day the deaf shall hear the words of a book, and out of darkness and fog the eyes of the blind shall see.

— And the poor will rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

Go back and tell John what you have heard and seen: the blind see, cripples walk, the deaf hear, and the poor have the good news preached to them.

— And the poor will rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.

Second reading

From a sermon by Saint Augustine, bishop

(Sermo 293, 3: PL 1328-1329)

The voice is John, the Word is Christ

John is the voice, but the Lord is the Word who was in the beginning.
John is the voice that lasts for a time; from the beginning Christ is the Word who lives for ever.

Take away the word, the meaning, and what is the voice? Where there is no understanding, there is only a meaningless sound. The voice without the word strikes the ear but does not build up the heart.

However, let us observe what happens when we first seek to build up our hearts. When I think about what I am going to say, the word or message is already in my heart. When I want to speak to you, I look for a way to share with your heart what is already in mine.

In my search for a way to let this message reach you, so that the word already in my heart may find place also in yours, I use my voice to speak to you. The sound of my voice brings the meaning of the word to you and then passes away. The word which the sound has brought to you is now in your heart, and yet it is still also in mine.

When the word has been conveyed to you, does not the sound seem to say: The word ought to grow, and I should diminish? The sound of the voice has made itself heard in the service of the word, and has gone away, as though it were saying: My joy is complete. Let us hold on to the word; we must not lose the word conceived inwardly in our hearts.

Do you need proof that the voice passes away but the divine Word remains? Where is John's baptism today? It served its purpose, and it went away. Now it is Christ's baptism that we celebrate. It is in Christ that we all believe; we hope for salvation in him. This is the message the voice cried out.

Because it is hard to distinguish word from voice, even John himself was thought to be the Christ. The voice was thought to be the word. But the voice acknowledged what it was, anxious not to give offense to the word. I am not the Christ, he said, nor Elijah, nor the prophet. And the question came: Who are you, then? He replied: I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness: Prepare the way for the Lord.

The voice of one crying in the wilderness is the voice of one breaking the silence. Prepare the way for the Lord, he says, as though he were saying: "I speak out in order to lead him into your hearts, but he does not choose to come where I lead him unless you prepare the way for him."

To prepare the way means to pray well; it means thinking humbly of oneself. We should take our lesson from John the Baptist. He is thought to be the Christ; he declares he is not what they think. He does not take advantage of their mistake to further his own glory.

If he had said, "I am the Christ," you can imagine how readily he would have been believed, since they believed he was the Christ even before he spoke. But he did not say it; he acknowledged what he was. He pointed out clearly who he was; he humbled himself.

He saw where his salvation lay. He understood that he was a lamp, and his fear was that it might be blown out by the wind of pride.

Responsory

John 3:30; 1:27; Mark 1:8

I must decrease, but he must increase; the one who comes after me existed before me;

— and I am not worthy to untie the strap of his sandal.

I have baptized you with water, but he will baptize you with the Holy Spirit.

— And I am not worthy to untie the strap of his sandal.

TE DEUM

You are God: we praise you;
You are the Lord: we acclaim you;
You are the eternal Father:
All creation worships you.

To you all angels, all the powers of heaven,
Cherubim and Seraphim, sing in endless praise:
Holy, holy, holy, Lord, God of power and might,
heaven and earth are full of your glory.

The glorious company of apostles praise you.
The noble fellowship of prophets praise you.
The white-robed army of martyrs praise you.

Throughout the world the holy Church acclaims you:
Father, of majesty unbounded,
your true and only Son, worthy of all worship,

and the Holy Spirit, advocate and guide.

You, Christ, are the King of glory,
the eternal Son of the Father.

When you became man to set us free
you did not spurn the Virgin's womb.

You overcame the sting of death,
and opened the kingdom of heaven to all believers.

You are seated at God's right hand in glory.
We believe that you will come, and be our judge.

Come then, Lord, and help your people, bought with the price of your own blood,
and bring us with your saints to glory everlasting.

CONCLUDING PRAYER

Let us pray.

Lord God,
may we, your people,
who look forward to the birthday of Christ experience the joy of salvation and celebrate that feast with love and thanksgiving.

We ask this through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, God, for ever and ever.

— Amen.

Acclamation

Let us praise the Lord.

— And give him thanks.
